Terms, $1.00 a Year in Advance.

Issued every Friday excepting by
W. H. MATTHEW,
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered at the Monterey postoffice as second class matter.

Monterey, Va., Friday, Mar. 21, 1902

Brother Payne of the Bath county Enterprise is a real good fellow. He agrees with us in the matter of roads that there is great room for improvement on them in both counties. Both papers should keep on preaching on the subject.

Would it be perverting the scripture, to refer in our discourses to the foolish man who built his house upon the sand. We all know what happened to that house when the rain came and beat upon it.

Two farmers in Kansas traded children recently, one man giving a ten year old son and a load of corn for a thirteen year old daughter and the transaction was made a matter of record in the county clerk's office. Both families are well to do and the reason for the trade was that one had no sons and the other no daughters.

Pay For the "Helo."

The credit system, we have an idea, is greatly abused by Highland people, and one reason and about the only one for that condition of things is that a great many persons do not mean what they say.

This paper in many issues during the year contains notices from "So and So" to his creditors, that they "must come up to the captain's office and settle" by a certain date. Mr. "So and So" don't say it in so many words, but he very strongly intimates that if said creditors do not do what he says, he will proceed immediately to tear up the earth and everything thereon. Well, the great day comes; the sun rises in its usual majesty and pursues its same course through the heavens to its usual place of going down thereof and yet the earth abides and what is thereon continues to be. Finally after several spasms after this fashion, Mr. "So and So" has good luck in cornering a victim, and as quick as wink he draws a little scrap of paper with "printin'" on it, saying something about paying at the Highland County Bank, and the very sight of it would (that is it "use to would") give the poor fellow what a hunter terms a genuine case of "buck fever." The fever having subsided sufficiently, the negotiable paper is duly signed, and then "time and tide" and negotiable wait for no man, and the first thing you know here comes the little ticket from the Bank, and then the "due day" arrives. (By the way that reminds us). It has come over so quick, but we have found time to learn that a negotiable note is not such a terrible thing after all, and it our phone hasn't been cut out, we call up Mr. "So and So" and have a little talk which makes him say "words" after carefully reviewing his month from the transmitter; but in the event that we can't knock the drop, we take our pen in hand and we write, viz: "Darling 'So and So' please take care of my paper at Highland County Bank. Lovingly yours," &c. It works like a charm and even after that we have no more fever when we sign negotiable notes. But in the end my dear readers we have to pay for the "Helo," but sometimes we have to pay for it in the start, and that's what was on our mind when it commenced to wander.

The other day E. H. McClintic manager of the M. & S. Telephone company said to his phone holders, "You will please pay up by a certain day, and if not your phones will be cut out." Well, you see we had been moving along after the fashion outlined above, and we treated the matter as a joke, infact, we thought but little about it, till a morning or so ago Mrs. M. very earnestly desired to call up Mrs. W. to ask her when lye floats an egg, if that's a sign of strong lye or strong egg, and don't you know that old box wouldn't do a thing. Mrs. M. got weak right off and sat down, and said, "I'll just bet somebody's saying something and I won't get to hear it, and here soap making is right on us. Now I do wonder, do you suppose that McClintic actually did go and do what he said he would? John! You paid your phone rent for this year?" "No wife. Why? What's wrong?" "Wrong! Every thing's wrong. I never will know what I'm missing this blessed minute. Now you get to town and pay, and be quick about it!" It is needless to say that John got, and he paid and when he went home he thought he would tell his wife news and that there were others who had been cut out, but, as he drew near he more fully than ever realized that he had paid for his "Helo," for the wire was already warm enough to smoke. His phone was in again, and with a bright smile met him at the door, and said "John I found out about the egg business—Mrs. W. says look on the 954th page of my cook book but I've been too busy at the phone, John I'm so glad those other women did not get to hear either, but the strangest part of it all is I thought the new manager Mr. Mack was just a funner." "To tell the truth of the business I did too" said John.

NEW SALEM, VA.

March 19, 1902.

Mr. Editor:— I think we seldom find a man no matter what may be his trade or occupation drift so far away, but that he will turn his face homeward sometimes. Some may go farther than others, and some may never return, but as a general rule I think they are very much like the old song—"But the cat came back it wouldn't stay away." The writer has been absent from this locality the most of the winter, only being able to return occasionally.

But being water bound and snow bound is two powerful bonds to be bound with. The writer has just been released from the bondage of both, and arrived at home before the moon changed again for better or worse. Speaking of changes, there has certainly been a few along the Bull Pasture river. I was born and raised on this river and have seen it get wild often before, even at the time of the memorable Johnstown flood I see it sweep everything before it. But from the marks it has left, and the damage done it is plainly seen that it never was as high before. The grassy banks on which I used to sit and fish and fight the mosquitoes have disappeared as if by magic. Where they used to be we now find the main channel of the river. But to turn from the river and glance back on the hills I noticed a fresh mound in the old grave yard on the hill, and they tell me it is the grave of William M. Pullin my school mate and favorite companion. On the night of February the 28th while the wind battled with the rain, and the waters were rising higher and higher; I have learned that it was then he ceased to battle any longer for life, and peacefully fell asleep. Billie was a splendid young man, and possessed many noble traits of character. He was an obliging neighbor, a mechanical genius, and ever ready to help anybody in trouble. Hunting was his favorite sport. He was a fine sportsman and splendid shot. He was attentive at church, and gave freely towards its institutions.

On Sunday the 9th of March the last sermon for the conference year was delivered to the congregation at Salem church by the pastor, Rev. M. P. Weikle and as the stewards were trying to raise the balance due on the pastors salary I noticed a young man, a brother of the deceased turn over a sum of money saying, this is what Billie wanted to give. I noticed a gloom of sadness pass over the faces of many present. No more help can be expected from him. If that was not a noble example how would we expect one to be set for us. If one that has been living on a bed of sickness for months past, and not knowing the day or hour that he was to be called away, could think in the last hours of his earthly career of the quarterage that was to be raised shortly—ought not we who are still spared with health and strength never grumble when we are called upon to respond to a just cause. May this be an object lesson and a watch word for every young man of this community. And as I will have to once more take up my journey and leave this community behind I will have to glance back at the new made grave on the hill and wonder whose will be the next.
